Northern College Coaches Say Team Is Best of Recent Years.

NOTRE DAME TUESDAY

Team Is in Fine Shape for Battle Coogan Elated at Success of Young Pitchers.

Halled by northern college baseball coaches as the strongest aggregation of ball towers which Georgetown has sent North in recent years, Coach Danny Googan's nine are in fine fettle for the game with Norte Dume on Tuesday.

Returning with a 5-1 victory over Holy Cross, a 10-1 win from Yale, fourteen inning 4-4 tie with Vermont, and with the only defeat of the trip by the Army, 5-2, Coach Googan considers that his men did remarkably well considering the long lumps and heavy traveling.

Capt. Feinle twirled a splendid game against the University of Vermont, but was opposed by Malcolm, a man of his own calibre, who is rated among the best in college circles, with the result that it was nip and tuck all the way. Tyson let Yale down with 1 hit, getting revenge for the bad beating Yale administered let Yale down with 1 hit, getting revenge for the bad beating Yale administered to Georgetown last spring. Kelly came back against Holy Cross, holding the hard hitting Worcester bunch, who took the Blue and Gray team into camp on the Hilltop field, early this season.

The game with Notre Dame promises a Greek against Greek struggle, as Capt. Kelly of the western collegians, who is scheduled to be on the mound, is the premier hurler of the Westerners, and has only been beaten once in his four years of collegiate ball, the single lefeat being administered by Michigan this year. Incidentally, this is the only pame which Notre Dame has dropped

In fact, Coogan is greatly enthused over the showing of his club and in a mass meeting on the Hilltop several lays ago he told the students that the Present Georgetown nine was the best college ball team, as a whole and in-lividually, which he has been associated in his long experience as a college base-

He is especially pleased with the per formance of the three youngsters on his team, Shugrue and McCarthy in the outleld, and Billy Martin at shortstop. All tave been playing stellar ball. McCarhy and Shugrue were both developed ast year and are fulfilling the promise hey then gave and are not only fielding well but are hitting consistently and ard. At short, Martin is playing an exeptionally fast game, covering a lot of fround, and is penging very well getting the bail off fast from any position. Though it is full first year on the variety, he is the life of the influe, getting plenty of fight and spirit into the Beside him at third, Jack Conapolly acts as a sort of balance, being steady and reliable, and by his cool presence is the infield's biggest area in . tight situation. Minor Leagues Threaten to Break Away from Organized Ball.

WRECKED THE AA CLUBS

When Minors Called for Help the Big Leagues Failed to Respond. Have Own Troubles.

New York, May 8,-It wouldn't be surprising if the Federal League became the power in baseball before another year rolls around.

The minor leagues just now are threatening to break loose from the American and National Leagues and form an alneans the taking away from those two major league organizations the very soil major league organizations the very soil that has nourished them.

There's hardly a minor league magnate who isn't cussing the moguls of the major leagues and the national commission. The Feds have about wrecked a dozen teams in the Class AA minors, but it isn't the Feds that the small magnates are swearing at mostly. It's their supposed friends in the big league who failed them—and failed miscrably—in the greatest crisis in baseball history.

The national agreement in which the big and little leagues are a start, provides that the big fellows shall take care of the little ones in times of trouble. When the Feds began raiding the little fellows they yelled to the big fellows for help. And the big fellows answered something about having "troubles of our own" jammed cotton in their sound receivers and kept it there.

Under ordinary conditions the major leagues would slip an oar to the little fellows. But this isn't an ordinary period, but one in which the majors feel thay need about all the available oars to keep themselves afloat. And they've left the little fellows to sink.

Clubs Face Bankraptey.

Clube Face Bankruptey.

The statement may seem odd that the minors may hook up with the very same crowd that put them on the fritz, but it seems the best move they can make. They can't get help from the majors and they can't hand alone against the Feds. So the only thing that remains, is for them to make peace with the enemy at whatever terms they can get. And, unless we miss our guess by a mile, the Feds.

Not Baying Players.

Not only in this way have the Feds placed the Class AA minors at their mercy, but also in another way, as we have seriously pointed out. That's in the matter of players. In other years the minors added to their income by Chostart, Browned, Merry Johnson, Marylet Mentgenery, Phys. Rev. and Garler, Prill, Gloscater, Kerylet and Sandard States and systems of the sale size.

DON'T WORRY

Cheerfully Dedicated to the Best Bunch of Ball Players on Earth

What is the matter with Walter's Why—nothing, at all, old scout; Just possess your soul in patience And you'll find it will all work out To our perfect satisfaction. So your apprehensions hide; He is just as good as he ever was, But he just hasn't struck his stride. Now just between you and me. "Old Top,"
Did you never experience a time
When every blamed thing in the world went wrong
Without any reason, or rhyme?
When you felt just as good as you ever did,
But somehow or other, a tide
Of adverse happenings, put you in bad?
Well—you just hadn't struck your stride, And other thing I would tell you, Kid,
Don't believe all the tales you hear;
Of midnight orgies; the pace that kills;
Of woman, and wine, and heer.
Tales told by the scandal-mongering dogs
Whom I love on a rail to ride.
The Climbers, and Johnson, are all, all right,
But they just haven't struck their stride.
